Notice of Upcoming Construction Works
Transition Berth Marine Piling

Kia ora,

As part of the Waitohi Ferry Redevelopment Project, works are planned on the temporary (transition) berth area.

This notice is to advise of upcoming marine piling works.

Work timings and hours

- Expected start: Works are scheduled to begin from 20 July and are expected to take place over several months, weather and site conditions permitting.
- Work hours: Monday to Saturday: 7am to 6pm. No night work is planned.

What work is planned?

The upcoming marine piling works involve installing piled structures (known as "dolphins") to support ferry berthing at the new Transition Berth in the port zone adjacent to the "Long Arm 1 wharf". This will be carried out using cranes and specialised equipment operating from barges.

What effects might you notice?

During these works, you may notice:

- Periods of construction noise and some vibration during piling
- Barges, cranes and support vessels operating in the harbour
- Truck movements delivering steel pile casings to site – initially via Lagoon Road, then switching to the Waitohi Domain access route once operational (see map).
- General construction activity within the transition berth area and nearby laydown areas.
- An Exclusive Construction Zone in Picton Harbour, marked by yellow special marker buoys.

Managing Impacts

Protecting the harbour environment and managing construction effects is a priority.
Measures in place include:

- Monitoring and management of noise and vibration, which occur predominantly underwater and have been modelled.
- Using best practice methods to minimise effects, including sediment control, when necessary.
- Use of trained marine mammal observers to monitor for the presence of marine mammals, with works delayed or paused if required.
- Planning and sequencing works to minimise disruption to port and marine operations.

Works will be coordinated with ferry operations, with activities paused or adjusted as required to maintain safe and uninterrupted ferry services.

Keeping you informed

Further works will follow as construction progresses. Additional notifications will be provided in advance where appropriate, including if activities change or have the potential for increased effects.
